Regulatory affairs

Quality is important to us. The market and our clients set the benchmark for quality. Our many years of experience in the industry let us provide the customer with a product that will be successfully approved for a highly regulated market. We guarantee a safe product for the end consumer that meets the highest quality and testing standards. Our quality management system oversees all processes, ensuring that our high standards are maintained at all times.

Internal quality management

Our internal quality management ensures the maintenance, monitoring, and continuous updating of the company's own standards. SUNLIFE operates as a pharmaceutical company and a distributor of medical devices. Accordingly, we are certified according to GDP (Good Distribution Practice) and DIN EN ISO 13485:2021. To maintain this certification, our quality management system is regularly audited by the relevant external regulatory bodies.

Product quality assurance

Ongoing quality checks of our products ensure that these always comply with the latest guidelines for quality and safety. This involves ongoing in-process controls in production, monitoring of production documents after each batch is produced and, finally, a process of approvals to bring products onto the market. Additional quality assurance tasks include creating/requesting all required documents, such as specifications and certificates as well as laboratory tests and checking for regulatory market conformity.

Setting benchmarks

Paving the way instead of following the herd. The health sector is in constant change. Here at SUNLIFE, we live and breathe innovation and constantly develop new products for our fast-selling own brands as well as our private label customers. Our innovations create progress and portfolio competence, allowing us to generate new sales potential for our customers. The customer takes centre stage

Our actions revolve around two things: our customers' satisfaction and success.

We are happy to use our expertise in production, product safety and marketing for our clients, and always orientate ourselves based on the goals and requirements given to us. We treat our clients as equals and will be at your side for the duration of the whole project and beyond with advice and solutions.

Here at SUNLIFE, we observe and evaluate emerging trends in the health industry, constantly inform ourselves about new and improved raw ingredients and develop ideas for innovative, new products including well-considered and attractive packaging solutions. We don't just come up with product concepts, rather complete range concepts.

We constantly develop and improve our products to take advantage of growth sources on the market. There's hardly any other sector that changes quite as much as the health industry.
